

Managed Security Services

2026

Continuous resilience in a converged risk environment

Security risk is no longer confined to IT. Cyber threats now intersect with operational systems, third parties, people, IoT devices and governance processes. Incidents escalate quickly, often crossing digital and physical domains before organisations can respond coherently.

Regulators demand oversight. Insurers require evidence. Boards expect clarity and accountability. Yet many organisations continue to rely on fragmented controls and periodic interventions.

SNG Grant Thornton provides structured, managed security services that deliver continuous monitoring, coordinated response and executive-level assurance, aligned to your risk profile and regulatory obligations

A holistic lens. Converged control. Managed delivery.

Holistic risk perspective

- We assess exposure across digital systems, operational infrastructure, third parties, people and governance frameworks, ensuring executive leaders see the full risk landscape.

Converged detection and response

- Threat intelligence, monitoring and incident management are coordinated at the point of risk, reducing response time and decision friction.

Continuous managed oversight

- Services are delivered through defined SLAs, structured governance and measurable performance indicators.

Security risk is no longer confined to IT.
